Wings clipped on Hang Gliding Club

By Margaret Smith

The Hang Gliding Club, which lost recognition as an official club on campus last semester, is now making a comeback according to Ron Fiscett, the club's president and member for three year's.

Last semester, the club experienced a problem with liability. To avoid lawsuits being brought against the university, Fiscett conferred with President Hogan, Associate Vice President of University Life Dean King, and the school's lawyers about moving the liability away from less than in past semesters.

Recognition pulled

This membership drive has been noted not only by students, but also by administrators. In a letter sent to Kevin Levesque, a member of the Hang Gliding Club, Dean King outlined the actions the club would and would not be allowed to function under within the university. "The Hang Gliding Club is clearly not to sponsor or associate itself with any actual flying or training." The letter goes on to state, "You are to instruct all members to cease referring to the ULHGC as a University approved entity until the revised constitution is approved and must emphatically state that the ULHGC does not authorize or sponsor flying or training of any kind."

Yet in two separate issues of the Connector, the Hang Gliding Club has not only promoted flying and referred to itself as an official club, it has also posted results of an Inter-collegiate Hang Gliding meet.

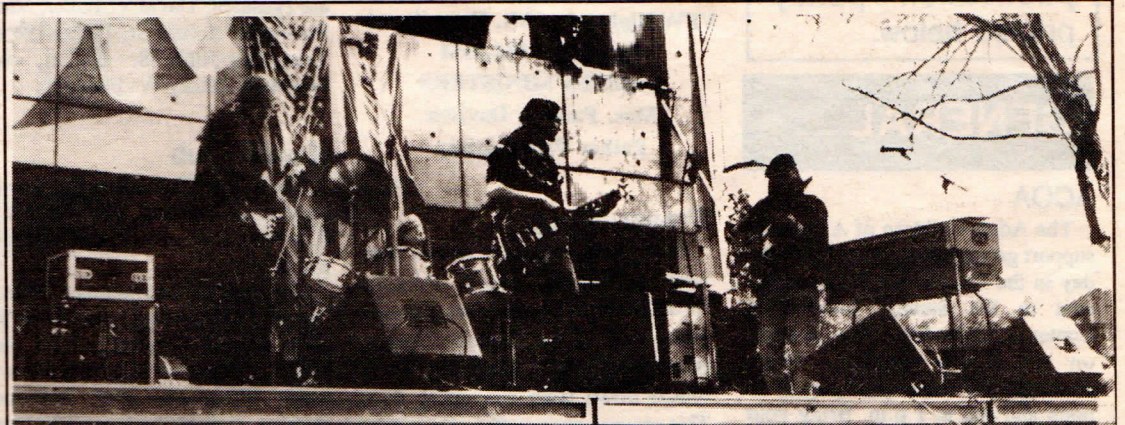

Since then, Dean King has sent a letter to Fiscett that stated, "Until [a new, revised constitution is submitted], you are not allowed to proceed under any pretext as the University of Lowell Hang Gliding Club. You are to instruct all members to cease referring to the University of Lowell Hang Gliding Club as a University-approved entity."

the university. As a result, the club no longer instructs hang gliding, yet it still provides access to professional training, usually referring those to Morningside Recreational Area in Claremont, N.H. Participants in the club were also advised to carry their own insurance.

Still other obstacles remain. "Our biggest problem now is just letting people know we are active again," stated President Fiscett. Fiscett has attracted 20 new members, raising the club's ranks to approximately 45—somewhat

Return of Concerts on the Quad

By Barry Holt

The first Concert on the Quad held on South Campus since 1984 was a huge success, owing mainly to the efforts of Progressive Student Union (PSU) organizers and some clutch negotiation work by new Director of Student Activities, Mary Connelly.

In years past the concerts had conflicted with classes being held in Weed Hall, but a compromise was reached whereby the concert would be delayed from the original starting time of noon to the agreed time of 2:00 p.m. This allowed the concert to begin before everyone left campus on Friday, but cause minimal disruption to classes being held in Weed

Hockey tri-captains acquitted

By Tracey Driscoll and Geoff Pahl

The tri-captains of the ULowell hockey team have been cleared of all hazing charges stemming from a party at which several freshmen players' heads were shaved. A board of appeals last week voted 7-1 to overrule Dr. Wayne Edward's sentence of one year of athletic probation for Carl Valimont, Jon Morris and James Newhouse.

The board, consisting of administrators, faculty members and students concluded that the captains were not guilty of hazing. Shaving a person's head does not constitute hazing, according to legal definition, as there was no mental stress or physical harm placed on the participants.

Over the years, head-shaving has become a non-mandatory tradition for rookies. No one was forced to participate, it was strictly voluntary.

Business law professor William Burke represented the tri-captains free of charge. He disapproved of Dean King's handling of the case, saying, "There was no due pro-

CAMPUS SHORTS

Oops

University of Illinois officials apologized last week for publishing a brochure that offended UI minority students. The man responsible for the brochure—counseling director Ralph Trimble—issued an immediate apology.

Trimble's office printed 1,200 brochures to advertise a workshop called "Loving in Long-Distance Relationships," and for the cover approved a section of a map that showed a place called "Nigger Mtn.," an actual place in Montana.

Laureen Bonner, head of UI's Minority Affairs Committee was "certain that the the graphics student who put the map on the flier knew what was going on," especially in light of several racist incidents on campus recently.

Berth Control

Students at St. Joseph's College gathered October 10 to demonstrate against visitation rules, which bar members of the opposite sex from each others' rooms. College President Dr. Loring Hart doesn't want to change the rules asserting that "undue intimacy is not conducive to academic life."

The protesters, some holding signs saying they didn't want to be "babysat" at college, were angered that the college's governors refused to discuss the issue at the last meeting.

Women fight frats

A women's group took responsibility for spray-painting anti-rape slogans on two University of Illinois frat houses, and promises to begin a "campaign of direct action" against a system that "trains men to be rapists."

The graffiti, said Lambda Chi Alpha President Phil Krader, "basically called us rapists."

Krader noted the vandalism occurred shortly after the campus paper published a story about how a 15-year-old girl was raped in a frat house last month.

Pressure is a problem

Students don't respond well to parental pressure to choose certain courses, majors or careers, a Stanford professor warned parents. Prof. Sanford Dornbusch said his studies indicated that even if students go along with parents' wishes, the students don't try as hard if they're not following their own desires.

"There's great emotion ready to be unleashed on the parent who appears to be overly protective or demanding," said Dornbusch.

cess," according to the Lowell Sun.

If Valimont, Morris and Newhouse, who have all been drafted by National Hockey League teams, are affected by such a scandal. The bad publicity could have been detrimental to their careers. If they choose to, they could bring suit against Dean King.

The decision was given after two days of hearing last week. The Sun quoted King as saying, "I think that even though I lost, the point I was trying to make got across."

Concert

As it happened, the event worked out to everyone's advantage, and the 2:00 p.m. start gave the sun time to bring the thermometer up from the 53° it was showing at noon to a more enjoyable 60°.

Co-sponsored by the Sociology Club, the Political Science Club, the South Student Information Center and the Activities Commission, the concert drew an approving crowd of onlookers. The set began with All Souls Day and was followed by R.D. Rhythm, who took the show right up to 6:00.

Vegetarian egg rolls and brownies were offered for sale from the Progressive Student Union and the English Society, respectively.

Student reaction to the revived concerts was encouraging. Music major and concert spectator Sheldon Landa said, "By allowing live music onto the campus it contributes to ULowell being more relaxed—which is what it needs. Everybody's too stressed out. It bridges the gap between North and South Campus attitudes."

PSU organizers are hopeful that a spring concert can be arranged featuring blues bands.

Student and Campus Police pull local boy from canal

By Geoff Pahl

As Sgt. John Recco and Officer Dan Hinckley of the ULowell Campus Police were about to drive over the University Avenue bridge to North Campus last Wednesday, they were waved down by Bourgeois Hall resident youngster out of the water under the bridge. Although they brought a life buoy with a rope down to the water with them, they quickly decided to try and reach him with a branch.

Sanquiches was able to grab the branch, which kept him from slippery rocks and the frigid water. Officer Hinckley, when asked about the nasty scrape he received, responded, "When you know there's a kid that might drown, you don't worry about what might happen."

Regarding Sanquiches' entry

Sgt. John Recco

John Tasker

Officer Dan Hinckley

John J. Tasker. Tasker told them that eight year old Jose Sanquiches of Salem Street had fallen into the canal near the St. Joseph end of the bridge.

Officer Hinckley and Tasker jumped the fence to get alongside the canal and as near to the boy as possible, while Sgt. Recco called for additional assistance from the Lowell Police and Fire Departments. Sgt. Recco then joined in the efforts to get the floating down the canal to the dangerous currents of the hydroelectric plant. Tasker then waded in and the three brought Sanquiches to shore via a human chain.

Shortly, with the arrival of several police cruisers and an ambulance, he was brought to the hospital and later released.

When later interviewed, Recco and Hinckley said that the real problems were the extremely into the canal, it seems that he and some friends were swinging on a rope near the river, and he somehow managed to slip in. Sgt. Recco suggests rather strongly that the rope should be cut down.

University Police Chief James W. Rowe, Sr., praises the quick actions of John Tasker and the alert response by Sgt. Recco and Officer Hinckley for keeping a scary incident from turning into something much worse.

Former trustee connected with suspected loan shark

By Chuck Mahaleris

Edmond "Gus" Coutu, former chairman for the University of Lowell's Board of Trustees and current member of Lowell's city council, has admitted owing $10,000 in gambling debts to a suspected organized crime figure.

The Boston Herald released the contents of tapes containing phone conversations reputed organized mobster John R. "Jackie" McDermott had with Coutu and other ranking city officials.

Last May, McDermott and eighteen others were charged with operating a $12 million-a-year crime operation whose functions included loansharking, gambling, and the distribution of stolen goods.

Coutu was called before the grand jury during the indictment proceedings as a witness and victim to the alleged loansharking and gambling practices of McDermott's organization.

In a press release issued to the Lowell Sun, Coutu called his gambling practices acts of 'poor judgement.'

"I want to start off by offering an apology to the people of the city of Lowell," Coutu was quoted. He continued by stating that the leak was given out by a faction determined to see his re-election bid fail. "There is a special interest group trying to control this city, the same group that went all the way to the governor's office to remove me from the board of trustees of the University of Lowell."

When asked whether the administration knew of Coutu's gambling practices while he was a trustee, Dean Thomas Taylor stated, "Not to my knowledge."

The Scoop

You are sitting in the office on a Wed. night when a call comes in. Someone's going to jump from a tall building. Grabbing your coat, a camera, and a note pad, you race to the scene.

Police, firemen, and clergy are trying to talk him down and you're the only reporter on the scene. Shooting a few pix for front page, you take notes and get some decent quotes before you head back to the Connector.

Quickly typing in your copy, your heart races as you realize that your story is going to be the first one on the crisis that will see print. You made your first scoop.

Write for News.

Cut your research time

You've just been assigned a paper on advertising management strategies. Before, you had to go through index after index in search of current articles in business publications. Now, a new system called Infotrac is available at the Lydon Library to ease your search.

The dual station Infotrac system located in the reference area is a periodical reference database. By simply keying in the subject information, you will get a title list of current articles from over 900 business, technical and general interest publications in addition to references from the New York Times and The Wall Street Journal.

The University Libraries have this system available on loan for an evaluation period of 90 days. Faculty and students are encouraged to come and use the system. Those who already have, love the convenience and ease of this new system. Come on in and try it.

Free tuition

Women with the ability to tutor high school students can live (year-round) rent-free at the Andover A.B.C. House in Andover Center and get tuition credits as well. Andover A.B.C. is a privately supported academic program for 10 high school girls from financially impacted areas and needs 1-2 resident tutor/proctors. The University of Lowell will provide full tuition credit for qualified women who can be available for weeknight evening study hours and to substitute occasionally for the resident directors, schedule to be mutually arranged. For an interview, please contact Tim Thomas, Andover High School, Shawsheen Road, Andover MA 01810, (617) 470-1700.

McGauvran dedication

On Wednesday, November 4, 1987, the University of Lowell community will gather to honor a very special woman, Dr. Mary E. McGauvran, former Vice President of Student Affairs. Dr. McGauvran, who has always been an advocate of the students, has served the University community in various capacities for 35 years and it was for this reason that the Student Government Association requested that the Board of Trustees name the South Student Union Building "The Mary E. McGauvran Student Center."

On November 4th at 12:00 noon, the building will be officially dedicated at a brief ceremony and reception to which the entire university community is invited. Please join us in expressing our gratitude and respect to this remarkable woman.

Registration for Spring 1988

The University has implemented a new computer assisted registration for the Spring 1988. Hopefully, this will help to alleviate the frustrations of previous registrations. It will also eliminate the long lines and waiting that were a part of the arena type registrations of the past.

Hints for Registration

- Do not schedule time conflicts. Time conflicts will cause an invalid registration.
- Required courses are only those courses that are specifically required by your curriculum.
- Do not designate core courses as required courses.
- Do not select alternative courses for your required courses.
- Please provide one alternate listing for each core course or elective course.
- Students who do not follow this procedure - will not be registered and must attend late registration on Tuesday, January 12, 1988.

Pre-Registration Procedure

- Advising Forms and Registration Forms - Please pick up advising form worksheet and new registration scanning sheet (3 part) in your departmental office starting on November 4th (Departmental office is office of record as of September 1, 1987.)

Are You A Woman Who Loves Too Much?

- Do you feel that having a special person in your life could solve your problems of depression, aimlessness and loneliness?
- Even though this special person reminds you of others who have made you unhappy, do you feel that this time it's different?
- Does your involvement with this person jeopardize your well-being, your health, even your safety?
- Are you terrified of the depression that will follow if you break up?

If so you may want to explore these topics in a free self-help group of women whose relationships are or have been exploitive, compromising or destructive. This group, based on the book "Women Who Love Too Much", by Robin Norwood will meet on Mondays from 12-1 p.m. in the conference room next to the SIC in the South Campus SUB. For more information contact either the Counseling Center, ext. 2390, or the Catholic Center, 454-0151.

The Sojourn meets again on Monday Nov. 2, 1987 at 3:30, in Fox 430B.

African-Americans who made America great

Without the outstanding contributions of many African-Americans in the Sciences, Technologies and the Arts, America would not be the leader or trend-setter that it is today. The work of the two African-Americans profiled in this article has been energy related.

The lubricating cup, which made possible the automatic oiling of machinery was invented Elijah McCoy (1843-1929). Educated in Scotland as a mechanical engineer, McCoy settled in Detroit on his return to the United States, and started experimenting with a cup that regulated the flow of oil onto moving parts of machines.

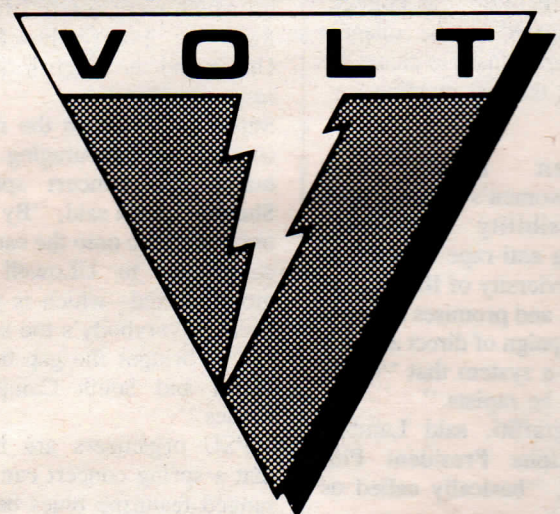

In 1872, he was granted a patent for the first automatic lubricator. No longer did machines have to be stopped for oiling; his new device revolutionized the machine industry. McCoy established his own firm and obtained patents for additional inventions, such as a "ironing table" and a lawn sprinkler; however, his major contribution was to become so popular that persons inspecting new equipment generally asked if it contained the "real McCoy," meaning the McCoy oiling device. This helped popularize an American expression, meaning the "real thing."

Lewis H. Latimer (1848-1928), a member of Thomas Edison's research team, made outstanding contributions to the development and commercialization of the electric light. Born in Boston, Latimer first worked as a draftsman in a patent office. He later became interested in electric lighting and began a long, productive career in the field, during which he both patented a process for making carbon filament for light bulbs and invented the bulb's threaded socket.

In 1884, Latimer joined the Edison electric Light Company, where he did research and, in 1890, wrote Incandescent Electric Lighting, a book which became the guide for lighting engineers. For many years, he served as an expert witness in court battles over Edison's patents. At Latimer's death, the Edison Pioneers, of which he was a charter member, attributed his "important inventions" to a "keen perception of the potential of the electric light and kindred industries." Elijah McCoy and Lewis H. Latimer two of the thousands of African-Americans who made America great.

Three-day photography conference opens tomorrow

Work from Two Decades spotlights prominent Northeastern photographers

Over the Halloween weekend ULowell will host a major photography conference that will showcase noted photographers from throughout the Northeast.

The event is being held by the Society for Photographic Education (SPE) and is being co-hosted by Tufts University.

Work from Two Decades

The conference theme is "Work from Two Decades." Selected photographers will be exhibiting works which encompass both the seventies and the eighties in an attempt to note changes which have occurred in the medium as well as stylistic variations that the individual artists have manifested over the past 20 years.

Students pitch in

All this week students from Professor Arno Minkinen's photo classes have been donating their time to ready the exhibition space in Lowell's Pollard Library and coordinate other aspects of the conference. Volunteers have helped with everything from locating a guest speaker for Friday's reception to handling the influx of reservations from SPE members throughout New England. Special rates of $15 per night (quadruple occupancy) at the Lowell Hilton have been made available to anyone who would like to attend the conference, which costs $25 and includes a Halloween bash at the Hilton on Saturday night.

Reception 8:00 p.m. Friday

"Work from Two Decades" will be exhibited in the beautifully restored Civil War Memorial Hall at Pollard Library, adjacent to Lowell City Hall. The show will open with a gala reception on Friday, October 30, from 8 - 10 p.m. The public is cordially invited to the show, which will be up through November 20. The hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m..

Conference schedule

A full schedule of special events will be held on Saturday, October 31, in the official conference headquarters at the Lowell Hilton, 50 Warren St.:

9:00 a.m. — Boston Globe photo critic Kelly Wise will moderate a panel titled "Getting Shown in Boston, if You're a Woman." On the panel will be Linda Benedict Jones, Chris Enos, Judith Black, and Laura Blacklow.

10:30 a.m. — William E. Parker, Prof. of Art and History of Photography at the Univ. of Connecticut will talk on Leslie Krims and Joel Peter Witkin, "Approaches to the Grotesque in the 70's and 80's."

Noon — A special luncheon debate will discuss "Work from Two Decades" with many of the jurors and participants in the show present.

1:30 p.m. — Tufts University Professor of Art Pamela Allara will lead a track titled "Contemporary Documentary Photography: A Question of Faith." Panelists will include James Higgins and Joan Ross, Phil 'N' Phlash, and Bonnie Donohue.

Other activities

Other SPE activities of special interest include a late afternoon trip to the Addison Gallery of American Art in nearby Andover for a gallery talk by curator Jim Sheldon, whose recent exhibition "Muybridge: Motion Studies" will be on display. Included will be over 150 original plates, slide projections, interactive video disc animations of 125 sequences, zoetrope strips, and other incredible apparatuses.

In addition, the Lowell National Historic Park Service will offer two special SPE tours of the city's canal and mill sites.

Keynote address

Saturday evening's keynote address on "Work from Two Decades" will be delivered by Students construct temporary display walls in Pollard Library, located next to city hall in downtown Lowell. The display will remain up through November 20 from 9:00 - 5:00 p.m..

Jonathan Green, Professor of Photography and Director of the University Gallery at Ohio State University. The address will take place at the University of Lowell South Campus, O'Leary Library, Media Room 222 at 8:00 p.m..

Sunday program

Rounding out the weekend on Sunday at 9:30 a.m. is Dr. Donald McLean of the Eastman Kodak Technical Development Staff, who will give a demonstration entitled "Working with Kodak T-Max films." Also scheduled for Sunday is a poster exchange, an SPE business meeting, and a portfolio viewing.

Selection process

To select the photographers who will be represented, a panel of seven jurors each contributed a list of 25 Northeast photographers who, in their opinion, played an important role during the past two decades. Out of the 130 names thus generated, 25 multiple mentions were automatically included in the show. The jurors were then asked to submit a list of three additional photographers they personally felt belonged in the show, bringing to 46 the total number of photographers who will be represented in the exhibit at Pollard Memorial Library.

Among the better-known names in the exhibition are Danny Lyon, Lee Friedlander, Harry Callahan, Nicholas Nixon, Mary Ellen Mark, Olivia Parker, Eugene Richards, Aaron Siskind, Doug Prince, John Wood, and Jerome Liebling.

More regionally-based photographers include Judy Felles, Gunther Cartwright, Deny Moers, Fred Cray, Reenie Schmerl, John Eide, Craig Stevens, Sylvia Plachy, Toby Old, Bonnie Gordon, and Julio Mitchel.

For more information please contact Arno Minkinen, Co-chair, Associate Professor of Art, ULowell at (617) 452-5000 x2335; or Siegfried Halus, Co-chair, Head of Photography Dept, Tufts U, at (617) 628-5000 x3567.

AL-ANON MEETINGS

Al-Anon is a fellowship of men and women meeting together to overcome the effects of living or having lived with an alcoholic. This program enables families and friends of alcoholics to recover from the chaotic effects of the disease of alcoholism. The success of Al-Anon comes from following the Twelve Step program developed by Alcoholics Anonymous. Al-Anon becomes the community resource for relatives and friends of alcoholics. "Alcoholism is a family disease. The well-being of anyone living with an alcoholic is affected emotionally, physically, and spiritually. Al-Anon Family Groups offer help to anyone who is or has been affected by the problem of alcoholism in a relative or friend. Al-Anon is for people who have a problem they want to solve by sharing their experience, strength and hope with other people; the more varied the membership, the broader the opportunity to share recovery. Whatever our relationship to the alcoholic, Al-Anon is a place to share, a place to care and a place to grow."** (Al-Anon Sharings, ACOA Al-Anon Conference Approved Literature.) AL-ANON MEETINGS will be held EVERY TUESDAY EVENING starting at 7:30 p.m. - 9 p.m. in FOX HALL ROOM 604.

Calling All Saints!

WHEN? Sunday, November 1, 1987 - All Saints' Day!

WHAT TIME? 6:00 p.m.

WHERE? Fox Student Union, Room 301

WHAT FOR? The Protestant Worship Service of Holy Communion, followed by a Supper (of spaghetti or pizza - come and find out which!)

SPONSORED BY WHOM? The University of Lowell Campus Ministry, Inc.

INTERESTED? If you're planning to come, please leave a message at 658-5377.

The origins of the festival of All Saints are not known for certain. As early as 359 C. E., Ephraim of Edessa composed a hymn that seems to indicate that a commemoration of all the martyrs was held on May 13. A few decades later John Chrysostom preached a sermon which suggests that the church at Antioch commemorated all the martyrs on the Sunday after Pentecost. The Sunday after Pentecost is still the day for the commemoration of all the saints in the Eastern churches. In the Western church,

November 1, was made the date for the feast for all saints in 835.

All Saints' Day is the feast of the church in which all the people of God are commemorated for their faithfulness. This vast community goes beyond the boundaries of race, language, condition, time, and even death. We remember not only the well-known people of God, but also those unknown to us, in whose lives the message of God's love is and has been realized.

The Rev. Imogene A. Stulken
Protestant Chaplain

Package Handlers Part-time

MONEY FOR COLLEGE YOU DON'T HAVE TO PAY BACK!

Let UPS help you earn the extra cash you need to make it through school!

UPS has lots of steady part-time openings for male and female package handlers and sorters at $8-9 an hour. Choose your own convenient 3-5 hour shift to fit around your classes.

UPS also gives you all the benefits of a "full-time" position on a "part-time" basis, providing great benefits including paid vacations, profit sharing, paid medical, dental & vision coverage. UPS also offers fantastic career advancement opportunities into management or other positions.

This year, don't "borrow" your way through school—EARN it with UPS!

Come and meet our Personnel Rep on Tuesday, 9am-4pm at the Olson Building, North Campus, Room 310 or if you can't make this, apply in person, Monday-Friday, 9am-5pm at the Personnel Office, 90 Brick Kiln Road, Chelmsford, (off Route 129, behind Tully Forum.) ## Karate club

Nine members of the Karate Club Team went to Fitchburg State October 25 to attend a special NECKC workout taught by Master Sensei Tabata. Master Tabata is the foremost karate instructor in North America, heading both the New England Collegiate Karate Conference (NECKC) and the North American Karate Federation (NAKF). Master Tabata holds a seventh degree black belt in Shotokan style karate and several other black belts in other martial art styles.

Master Tabata started the workout with basic warm ups to loosen the muscles and then started to teach kata, a series of techniques against many imaginary opponents. During the four and a half hour workout, Master Tabata taught and displayed a mastery of the five katas: Heian Shodan, Heian Yodan, Heian Sandan, Heian Nidan, and Heian G odan.

Each kata requires a more difficult mastery of basic movements working to a high point. The training required strict concentration, physical conditioning, and the mental determination to survive.

Karate helps people work together to acquire skills of strength, coordination and focus. The balance, self discipline and speed needed in many other sports is also developed in a healthy manner.

The Karate Club thanks Master Tabata for his time and energy with which he taught the techniques of the five katas. We look forward to his visit to ULowell on November 11 when he will teach our class. Also, we hope that many members will attend Master Tabata's NECKC special workouts November 7 at M.I.T. and November 15 at Lynn.

Following the workout at Lynn, beginners are invited to observe a monthly black belt training session.

For more info on our club, write to our box: North SIC 172.

Drama club marches on

After casting two of Jack Neary's plays, "aMusement" and "Jerry Finnegan's Sister", and organizing club committees, the ULowell Players are marching on towards an opening night of November eighteenth. Enthusiastic to begin rehearsals, the entire cast was found off-campus with the original copy of the script. A videotape was made of the first sketchy run of "aMusement." Needless to say seventeen actors, various thirt quenchers, and one script made for an eventful evening.

More businesslike rehearsals are being held on Tuesday,

Wednesday, and Thursday evenings at 6:30 in Mahoney Auditorium. The Players are working hard to prepare the set and auditorium, in addition to learning lines and parts. Also in Mahoney Hall, tickets will be available beginning November 9, at the Box Office in Mahoney Hall. Time of ticket sales.TBA. Tickets will also be available at the door Nov. 18 thru 21. Prices are as follows: $3 for students, $4 for groups of ten or more, and $5 for adults.

Opening night is November eighteenth at 8:00 p.m. and the plays will show at the same time on the 19th, 20th and 21st. "aMusement" and "Jerry Finnegan's Sister" are supported and funded in part by the Center For Performing and Visual Arts at ULowell.

Not only do the ULowell Players have theatrical talent, but the kind of partying talent most college students can relate to. And as one more school week comes to an end, the Players find another reason to Masquerade and party at their Halloween Costume Bash. Until next week...see you at the Sundance Cafe, the new "official" gathering place of the ULowell Players.

Equestrian team

The ULowell Equestrian Team began the show season on October 10th at Dartmouth College, competing against teams from Colleges such as Harvard, Tufts, B.U., and U.V.M. The competition was tough, but the small group of riders managed to win three firsts, two thirds, one fourth and a sixth in their respective division.

The trek continued on to the University of Vermont the following Saturday, where the chilly mountain air kept the riders alert and in high spirits. The team gained one second, three fourths, and one sixth out of the seven events that had been entered, giving a good performance overall.

The show season continued at Colby-Sawyer College in New Hampshire on October 24th. Competing against ten other teams, the team rode hard and won themselves one first, one second, one third, one fourth, two fifths and a sixth, making the day quite a success.

Next Saturday, on October 31st, the team members - Dawn Ford, Renee Roker, Lynn Watson, Tricia Murphy, Lennie Neil, Beth Herling, Chris Chrisholm, Lynda Leahy, Andrea Ardito, and Karie Thompson, encouraged as always, by Professor George Luter - will once again dedicate themselves to a day of riding at the University of New Hampshire. ## ASME opportunity corner

As an engineering student here at ULowell your immediate goal is to qualify for your degree. But what about after your graduation? Other than earning a good pay, what are your long term goals for after graduation?

One possible goal is to become registered as a professional engineer. It may be required by your employer in the future so that the company can place you on certain contracts. To be self-employed as a consultant the state of Massachusetts requires legal registration. In other states it is a requirement to testify in court on the safety, or other issues of a design. Although it is not required for general employment as an engineer, if you ever plan to be in any of the above cases, it is best to start preparing now.

The first step is to pass the Fundamentals of Engineering exam. This an eight hour multiple choice test on all the technical subjects you have taken in school. The test is the same no matter what type of engineering major you are.

Passing the exam certifies you as an Engineer-in-Training, and you are recognized as such by each licensing jurisdiction in the United States. The minimum requirements to take the exam are a B.S. in Engineering, or a B.S. in Engineering Technology combined with four years of acceptable experience. To take the second exam, Principles and Practice Examination, requires an additional four years experience as a certified E.I.T. Having successfully passed both exams registers you as a Professional Engineer.

Application forms for the exams are available in the M.E. and C.E. offices or directly from the Board of Registration. Additional information is available from the board at the address on the application or you may speak with Professor Flanagan (EB 331 X2686) of the Mechanical and Energy Engineering Department. Professor Flanagan is the coordinator for the Merrimack Valley, Fundamentals Exam test site. Which just happens to be the University of Lowell!

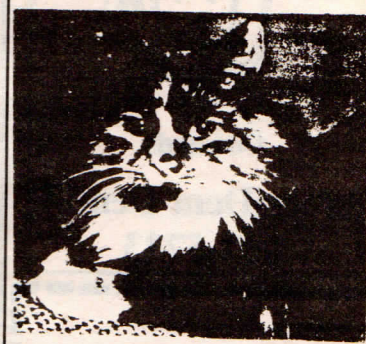

To take the exam here, you must fill out the Board's application indicating Merrimack

Gallery 410 presents "Wakeful World"

Painted Wood Constructions
by Barbara Berry
November 2 - November 24, 1987
Reception: November 4, 3-6 p.m.

The November show in Gallery 410 focuses on the mysterious environments of Boston artist Barbara Berry. The pieces in this show began with discarded objects; fences, windows, branches, tables, and bits of drapery. The once useful forms now rendered useless by being relieved of their original function...The objects then take on a new function upon entering into these sculptures.

The artist states that she is "as attracted to weeds as to flowers. Each has its own unique form to be appreciated once detached from ideas of good and bad, beautiful and ugly, desirable and undesirable. There is something very plaintive about an abandoned object. This sadness and haunting quality follows me everywhere. Yet something living, something real is taking place in everything."

Barbara Berry received her M.F.A. from the University of Colorado and is currently a guest lecturer at the School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. Her exhibition record includes a 1987 one person show at the Chapel Gallery and inclusion in the prestigious "New England Women Artists" exhibition at the Northeastern University Art Gallery, Boston.

Gallery 410 invites you to meet the artist at a reception open to the public on Wednesday, November 4, from 3 - 6 p.m. The gallery is open Tues. - Thurs. from 1 - 4 p.m. and by appointment. For information, call 452-5000, extension 3037 or 2872

Catholic centers spaghetti supper

The next spaghetti supper will be held on Wednesday, November 4th starting at 5:30 p.m. at the Catholic Center. (corner of VFW Highway and Mt. Hope St., three blocks down from University Ave.) The menu includes, spaghetti with meat sauce, salad, garlic bread, dessert and beverages.

If this sounds appetizing call the Catholic Center and reserve a place for you and your friends.

Call today, our spaghetti suppers are becoming very popular with our students. I understand it is because of the chef and her helpers!!! Or is it because it is a wonderful opportunity to meet new people or 'renew' 'old' friendships. For your reservation call 454-0151 and ask for Pat or Fr. Paul. Our invitation is open to all students, faculty, staff and administrators. See you on Wednesday, November 4th at 5:30 p.m.

Pre-law society

On Tuesday, October 27, we had host a guest speaker, his name is David M. Trorato, Attorney at Law. We were very happy to have him. He is well established in a General Practice in Andover. He specializes in Real Estate and Civil Trial cases. he is also a former officer of the outstanding Pre-law Society. He graduated from the University of Lowell in 1980 and from Rutgers School of Law in 1983. The title of the talk was "Why Law School". This was a great topic to discuss with our guest speaker. There are many of you engineers, finance students, etc., who are wondering if you would like to attend Law School. In order to better answer that very important question, it is important that you attend events like this so that you can gather the necessary information from these guest speakers and from the Society that will help you along the way.

Thank you to David Trorato for speaking to our legal eagles.

If you have any questions concerning any aspect of the Society, or whatever, please contact me Dan Ziegler, president of Pre-law Society, through Box 169N.

When nothing hits the fan

Thomas O. Kershaw

Editor

The past two weeks have generated more interest in the business world than perhaps any other in recent memory. Even those who think the only things bears do are eat nuts and hibernate had something to say about the record drop in the Stock Market.

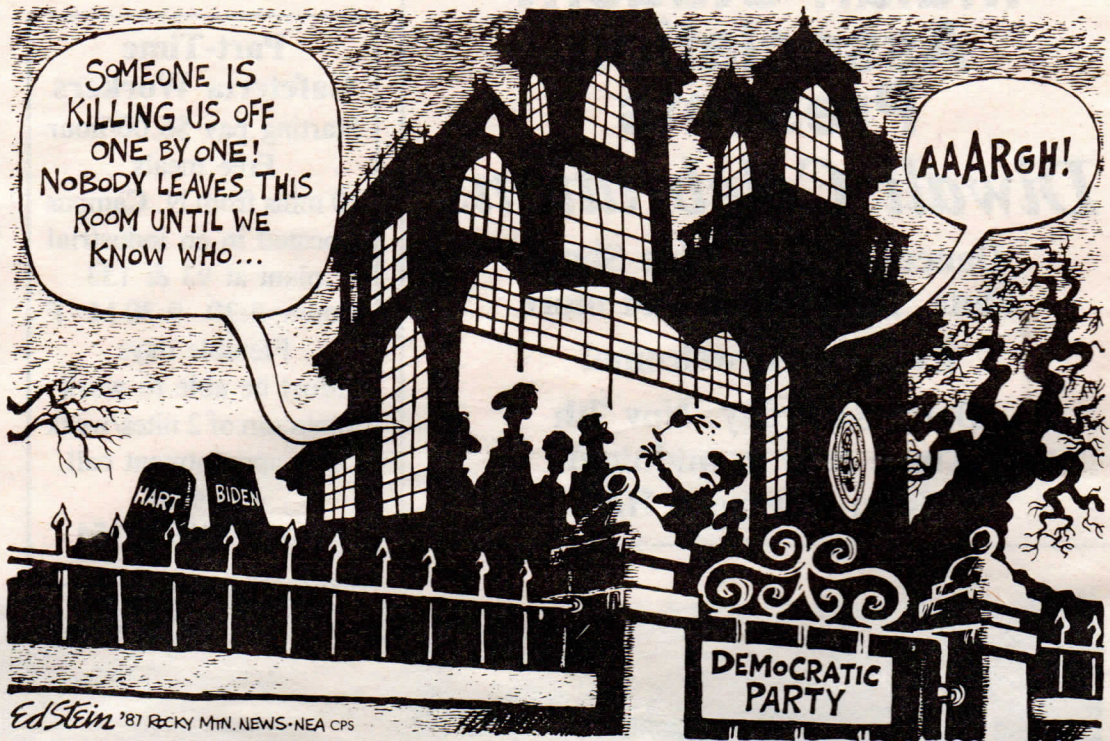

But how many of those people had something to say about the attacks and counter attacks which occurred in the Persian Gulf. Or the continued delays in setting a date for an arms summit. Both of which occurred at the same time as the market crash.

Why have so few had so little to say about a President who has just had his first press conference in seven months? When will the media demand that someone other than Helen St. Thomas or Sam Donaldson get to ask a question of the President. There has been all too much going on that the President needs to take responsibility for or, at least, address to the country in a timely fashion.

The newly attained invisibility of the President is an interesting phenomenon, considering much of his early success stemmed from his television presence. "The Great Communicator" has perhaps lost his voice as more and more the public looks for attestability for the actions of members of government. Or, perhaps the problem is a loss of hearing since the closest thing to an inquiry of the President would be to shout under the whirl of a helicopter or across the lawns of the White House.

Contra-gate, Iran-gate 1 (the Ollie North story) and now Iran-gate 2 (the Retaliation) are but some of the issues that this Administration has been playing hide and go seek with. I agree that there are some issues that, for a time, must remain covert. However, if those involved in such activity are not creative or resourceful enough to conceal it, than how can we expect that those from which we are working against couldn't figure it out as easily as a reporter from the Miami Herald.

It is the responsibility of the President of the United States to speak both for the people and to the people. This prolonged trend of hiding the President from information he should be aware of and thus keeping it from the public must stop. It is also time for the various medias to say they will no longer be the playthings of an exiting administration trying to hide their follies to protect a party.

Letters to the Editor:

To the Editor

In the October 15 CONNECTOR, Thomas Kershaw, Editor, made several statements regarding the University Libraries. I applaud his expression of student interest in improving the Libraries.

The closing over a long holiday weekend follows a pattern established over several years and reflects low use by students during those times. That practice is being re-evaluated and will be changed for the remainder of this academic year. In regard to location signs, the Libraries have recently installed over $2,000 worth of signage and will continue to improve directional information to help students locate resources.

The University Libraries added about 1.4 million dollars worth of new materials during the past year. This included over 3,300 serial subscriptions and 23,000 books. As you probably know Lydon Library is crowded and we have had to shift older bound volumes of periodicals and government documents out to the stack tower and basement in the Alumni Library building to ac-comodate new materials added. This is being done to maintain as much student seating as possible while still bringing in the newest materials. Building expansion will not take place for about five years so space will continue to be a problem at Lydon Library.

A new contract for the lease of four new photo copiers is being processed and they should arrive in the next week. Every effort will be made to keep the copiers up and running properly.

I want the students to know that the University Libraries are dedicated to sensitively serving your needs for resources and services. We are in the process of establishing a Student Advisory Committee to the library which should provide an improved channel of communication.

If you have concerns please contact me at 2974 or Dr. Jan Fortier, Head of Public Services at 2955. You may also deposit suggestions in boxes provided at the charging desk in both O'Leary and Lydon Libraries.

Bernard Franckowiak
Director of Libraries

Random Thoughts

People are always saying that if it weren't for Nancy, Ron wouldn't be a good President. Well, if that's true, then have her run for the republicans instead of Bush. I'd rather have someone run who had the President in her lap than someone who acted like a lap dog near the President.

This season there are more and more cop shows on each station. I'm tired of these lame programs. What we need is strong viewer support to bring the Three Stooges to prime time. Let's form CRAPP (College Reactionaries Against Police Programs). I want moronic shows. I want my Stogie T.V.

Why do I (and other English majors) have to take a foreign language? I understand the need for our culture to assimilate with others, but if I'm going to be mugged in the Acre, I'd rather not know what they are saying.

Did you know that there is a new intramural sport going around. To play all you need is a little kid and a canal. The student who pulls the most kids out of the canals wins.

I've calculated that the average temperature is inversely proportional to the amount of clothes you wear. The days you wear jams and tank top, there is guaranteed to be three inches of snow fall.

I hate my car. This season, the wind chill factor is already climbing while the temperatures are dropping, and now my heater decides to go on vacation.

Catholic Center announces trip

The Catholic Center is once again sponsoring a work trip to Appalachia during the semester break. Appalachia is one of the poorest sections of our country. For the past seven years, the Catholic Center has organized from 15 to 20 students to go down to Appalachia and perform a wide range of services for people who are in need of assistance. In past years, students have done wood chopping, roofing, light carpentry, painting and a host of other odd jobs for many of the poor and elderly of Appalachia.

This year we will be journeying to the Sothwestern tip of North Carolina to two poor counties of the Appalachian region. We are planning to leave either on December 27th or 28th and return by January 7th or 8th. This schedule allows for a full week of vacation before classes resume again in January.

Our trip is open to anyone interested in making a contribution of time and energy to folks who can use a helping hand. For more information and to sign up, please contact Fr. Paul at the Catholic Center. The number of students is limited so we encourage people to begin making their plans early. The Catholic Center number is 454-0151, or you may pick up an Appalachian Trip form at the Campus Ministry Office on South. The annual Appalachian Trip has been one of the highlights for many ULowell students over the past seven years. This year promises to be one of the best trips yet. Do yourself a favor, and plan to do something significant with your semester break this year by joining us in Appalachia.

The Catholic Center announces the T.E.D.G.

The Tuesday evening discussion group (TEDG) is an idea whose time has come! Beginning on next Tuesday, November 3rd at 7:00 p.m. at the Catholic Center, the "TEDG" will begin looking at a wide range of issues that impact our lives. The idea for the "TEDG" flowed from a discussion among students about the issues of war and peace, premarital sex, the economy, abortion, cheating and homosexuality to name a few.

If you have ever thought about these and other issues, have questions to raise or opinions to share, please join us. The discussion will last about an hour and will take place on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. The center is located on the corner of the VFW Highway and Mt. Hope

Street. Our first "TEDG" will be an "Open Forum". Based on the issues raised, a steering committee will designate specific issues for the bi-weekly discussions. In November the "TEDG" will meet on November 3 and 17 and in December on 1 and 15. All are invited. All you need to attend are curiosity and a willingness to explore important issues. Please join us!

Listening to the legend of Buddy Holly

A Retrospective

By Randy Edgar

In a high school English course autobiography, Buddy Holly wrote, "My life has been what you might call an uneventful one, and it seems there is not much of interest to tell...I have many hobbies. Some of these are hunting, fishing, leatherwork, reading, painting, and playing western music. I have thought about making a career out of western music if I am good enough, but I will just have to wait to see how that turns out." When he died in 1959, at age 22, he left, in the words of Malcom Jones, "a dazzling series of firsts in an era in which everyone followed the flock."

This is no exaggeration. Holly was one of the first white rock stars to perform his own material. His group, the Crickets, was probably the first to feature the later standard lead/rhythm/bass/drums lineup. He was the first rock and roll artist to use strings on record. He was also one of the first people to popularize the Fender Stratocaster electric guitar, a full decade before Eric Clapton started using one. As for his appearance, he was the first rock and roll star with the nerve to wear glasses on stage.

His influences included such diverse musical strands as the blues, country, western swing, black gospel, and Baptist church tunes. His amazing talent enabled him to harness these influences into his own unique sound. To this musical base, he applied his excellent lead guitar, his child-like vocal phrasing, and his themes of young love.

He became a major influence for the likes of the Beatles (Paul McCartney now owns the rights to Holly's music), the Kinks, the Hollies (just look at their name), the Everly Brothers, Bob Dylan, Creedence Clearwater Revival, and countless others.

Today, his recordings are amazing for their freshness and vitality, but most of all for their musical vision. Barely out of his teens, Holly was clearly years ahead of his time, and the best of his recordings are timeless.

A bespectacled Buddy Holly enjoys a first taste of success.

Buddy Goes Digital

"Buddy Holly -
From The Original Master Tapes"

By Dan Johnson

Buddy Holly's influence on popular music is almost incalculable. The Beatles and the Rolling Stones are just two of the groups that have been influenced by him. Mick Jagger said of Holly, "He is a true original." His untimely death was truly "the day the music died."

This compact disc was compiled from the first

compact disc review

generation master tapes. It contains all the major hits from his short career: "That'll Be The Day," "Oh Boy," "Not Fade Away," "Maybe Baby," "Peggy Sue," and "It's So Easy." It also contains more obscure songs that are just as addicting as his "hits." "Everyday" sounds like it could have been recorded yesterday. "Listen To Me" is a haunting ballad that stays with you long after it is finished.

The quality of this CD is excellent. All the sounds are clear and unmuddled and have a minimum of background noise. The guitar break on "Peggy Sue" is sonically astounding. The truly remarkable thing, however, is that many of the recordings are in true stereo. Most oldies CD's have electronically reproduced stereo that places all the highs in one channel and the lows in the other. This CD has the original stereo and mono versions as Holly recorded them.

The only complaints I have of the packaging are the absence of liner notes, and some of my favorite songs were not included. It would have been nice

Don't be victimized!

Every year thousands of women in the United States are victims of violent crimes. Often these acts are preventable by exercising simple precautions such as not walking alone, avoiding dark, abandoned alleys, etc. Sometimes though, it's impossible to avoid a violent confrontation.

If this happens, even the most simple self-defense techniques can save your life. Join the residents of Concordia Hall on Wednesday, November 4th at 7:00 p.m. when Dr. Lam, a 3rd degree blackbelt in Judo, demonstrates ways of fending off an attacker. Both men and women are welcome. There is no charge for this program - it's co-sponsored by RHA and Concordia Hall Council!

RHA Info

One of the student organizations that "makes things happen" on the ULowell campus is the Residence Halls Association. Comprised of representatives of each of the six residence halls the RHA is committed to sponsoring activities and events geared to serve the resident student population. To date RHA sponsored activities have included the New Student Orientation program for freshmen, a Thursday night excursion to Kenmore Square, and a bus trip to cheer on the ULowell crew team at the "Head of the Charles" regatta. Upcoming events being planned for later this semester are the "Halloween Road Race" on October 29, an RHA logo contest for a cash prize in mid-November and Xmas shopping expedition to New York City in December. Look for more information about these events in future editions of the Connector.

Aside from sponsoring events RHA also serves as the organization that represents the needs, issues and opinions of the resident students to the ULowell administration as well as to other student groups on campus. In this regard, RHA will be asking you to participate in a few surveys. One will poll student's perceptions of the new ARA Food Service on campus, results of which will be presented to the Food Service so that they have a greater idea of your needs and preferences. Another survey will be asking you for your opinion about what kind of furnishings you would like to see in the three new residence halls that will be opening in the Fall of 1989.

If you would like more information into how you could get involved with RHA or if you have a concern about some aspect of residence living and you just don't know where to go, contact any Senator or Hall Council President:

RHA'S Kenmore Square night

On Thursday, October 15, the RHA arranged for two Dunbar busses to transport students from Fox Hall parking lot to Kenmore Square in Boston. At first the RHA members were concerned that all the planning that had been put into this event was in vain because very few bus tickets had been sold up to the previous day. But knowing that U-Lowell students are last minute go-getters we kept our hopes up. When the busses arrived at Fox Hall there were about sixty to seventy students waiting to buy tickets. It turned out to be a standing room only event.

The busses left Fox at 7:30 and upon arrival at Kenmore Square everyone went their own way. Some students went to Narcissus,

The Nine, Celebration, Lipstick, The Metro, and some went to Quincy Market to enjoy the Metropolis' night air. Those who stayed at the square were astonished to find out that "Alicia" was making a special appearance there. The RHA's sponsored event was over at 1:00 when students boarded the busses, they arrived at Fox Hall at 2:00.

This trip was a tremendous success. There were no problems either on or off the busses. If there is enough interest regenerated in the dorms, the RHA would be more than happy to sponsor another trip to Kenmore Square. If you would like to go again or if you missed it this time talk to your RHA senators or your hall council president.

Hall happenings

Concordia Hall Council is a committee made up of a group of active and enthusiastic women. Meetings are held every Monday evening, beginning with a discussion among the officers, after which the Floor Representatives raise any matters of concern and contribute to final decisions.

The council is divided into two committees: the Fundraising Committee and the Activities Committee. Some responsibilities of the Fundraising Committee are to sponsor the Souvenir for the Residence Hall, hold money-making activities, some activities to raise money for hall activities.

The Activities Committee is responsible for activities such as the Halloween Party, which is set for the 29th of October. The Residents of Leitch and Bourgeois are invited. For November, the "Women of Concordia" will be celebrating a Residence Hall Ice Cream Party. This semester's activities will conclude with the Concordia-Leitch Semi-Formal set for the 4th of December.

There are other activities held in the hall such as Movie Nite every Friday starting at 8:00. Annual Care Packages are sent to the residents during finals, and floor wide Pizza Party which are held at the end of the semester.

The Floor Representatives are the councils' "workers of the field." Each Floor Representative belongs to either the Fundraising Committee or the Activities Committee. Their responsibility is to inform their floor of activities which have been planned by the council through creative posters or signs. The names of the Floor Representatives of each floor are: First Floor-Leslie Bateman and Tracy Stuart, Second Floor-Josie Rodriguez, Jennifer Walsh, Elizabeth Shea, Pamela DiFiore, and Gennette Cardullo, Third Floor-Michelle LaPiere, Nicole Lyster, Anna Milani, and Ann Burgos, Fourth Floor-Sandy Higgins, Paula Gavin, Roberta Ferro, and Robin McKay, Fifth Floor-Coleen McMenamy, Stephanie Austin, Nuala Kimball, Rose Delfufo, and Debbie O'Brien, Sixth Floor-Julie Whitter, Sarah Close, Kelly Reno, Michelle McGrath and Lisa Emmett.

These members work very hard to make their Residence Hall a more active and an enjoyable place in which to live, and I for one am proud to say we will have a very successful year. keep up the Good Work!

Lightning strikes

By Chas Kelley

Two touchdowns in 41 seconds?! Is that humanly possible?! Well, the ULowell football team proved that it is last Saturday against Maine Maritime. The Chiefs scored twice within the remaining 41 seconds of the second quarter. ULowell had already jumped out to a 10-0 lead before the end of the first quarter before they struck again. Quarterback Rob Alyward threw a 24-yard pass to running back John Moguaro and place kicker John Hulme booted the extra point to give the Chiefs a 17-0 lead for what seemed to be the end of the first half, but then the defense got in on the action. Linebacker Vince Piro intercepted a Maine Maritime pass and returned it for another Lowell touchdown. A Hulme field goal in the third quarter made the rout 27-0 before Maine Maritime tried to save face. The home team scored two touchdowns and made one of two two-point conversion attempts to make the final score ULowell 27, Maine Maritime 14.

X-COUNTRY UPDATE

The University of Lowell men's cross country team began their season September 19, with the 5.0 mile Bryant Invitational. The meet was won by Keene State's Tom Anderson (no time available). Finishing for ULowell were Mike Wright, 6th; Brian Moody, 7th; freshman Mike Chamberas, 9th; Declan Gilbert, 25th; freshman Eric Desharnais, 26th; Suraffel Assafa, 32nd; and Joe Madden, 46th. Keene State won the meet, ULowell placed second, and St. Joseph's finished third.

Lowell's second meet was October 3rd at the University of Rhode Island. URI's Bragg finished the five-mile course in 25.00 minutes, taking first place. Lowell finished second in the four team meet with Mike Wright taking fifth, and freshman Eric Desharnais sixth. Other Chief scorers included Joe Madden, Steve Peterson, Suraffel Assafa, Mike Chamberas, Declan Gilbert, and Terrence White. SCSU finished third and the University of New Haven took fourth.

Lowell won their third meet, the Codfish Bowl, for the fifth time on October 10th. Runners Mike Wright and Brian Moody finished the 5.2 mile course in 26.56 minutes. U Mass-Boston was second and St. Joseph's was third in the fifteen meet. Other Chief finishers were Mike Chamberas, Eric Desharnais, Suraffel Assafa, and Declan Gilbert. ULowell's next meet is the New England Championships, Saturday, October 31 at Franklin Park in Boston. Anyone is welcome to attend.

for MCA to include the lyrics and the historical significance of the songs in the liner notes, and they should have placed more songs on the disc. It does run a respectable 44 minutes, but 10 or 15 songs could easily have been added. "Crying, Hoping, Wishing" and "Raining In My Heart" are sorely missed on this compilation. However, these points should not deter you from including this disc in your collection. It takes only a couple of hearings to convince you of Holly's genius. This is a rare opportunity to hear timeless songs on a timeless medium.

Kelli and Heather, Glad to hear that the two of you are daring and will go anywhere!! We'll have to see exactly how far that bare courage goes! Tandem

Callahan, Sorry to hear that your mother didn't like where your desk was for you

Heather Z.- So, I understand that your rates start as low as $.35? Tandem

Jack Demers, have they found a way yet so that you can bear Sheena's children? Do you really think that she'd be interested in you of all people?? Love, your favorite people B & P

Jack, Sure looked like you had a great time on Friday. Too bad Sheena couldn't make it even though you sent her the tickets. Maybe you'll have better luck when they invent a way for you to have her children. But then again, who knows, She may not be interested. Love your adoring fans B & P

Suzanne Bovio: Here it is.. Congratulation on Homecoming Queen, you really deserved it. Too bad the "Prince" of Hudson didn't realize what he had when he had it. I guess it is his loss. It certainly is not yours. Good luck in life and maybe you'll finally get you D.I.G. appointment. Ha Ha, maybe when Hell freezes over the way things have been going, guess who

Joanne, Please accept our apology. You're right: we're not good enough to call you concieted. The guys in Smith

Joanne—We can't imagine you in the projects but we can see you strapped naked to a tree choking on your own blood. Love Mom and Dad

Wanted: Human flesh for our piranha. Young female virgins preferable. We will pay with sexual favors. S324

S324: Maybe our piranha can get together soon. The more the merrier (and the more piranha, the more sexual favors). The Typesetter

Joanne Can Underlings never tire lusting after pretty people? Eames Rogues

To Campus Police: Thank you for giving me a ticket in my own parking lot where I was legally parked. Is there a minimum intelligence level for a campus cop or do you just have to have experience as a crossing guard? From: Rich White Punk on Dope to Marie in the Green house: I've seen you walking with a guy, is that your boyfriend? He may be now, but once we meet, he'll be you past and I your future. Until that special moment dear vision of beauty, I bid you adieu!! Love...Your Secret Admirer

To the muscular guy with short, spiked brown hair who hangs out in the South SUB who watches me, why don't you say hi, you might be surprised if you do! Love, Me

Leo, I think you are really cute, I sneak looks at you during our US History class, 10am in Coburn, you make the class interesting for me! Love, Your secret admirer

To Dave, Kelle, Paula and of course Cheryl (the elite MT's), Happy Halloween!!! Love Maria (the other elite MT)

Cold towel, cold towel, whiplash, a day at the beach, party, party, that's a lotta tea and a promise of better days and nights to come (and they wait) Love and Lust! Happy One Year! The Half-naked Woman

My Love, The Half-naked Woman, the Little Wook: Can you believe the height we've reached! With you I've just completed the best year of my life, the first year of my life. Somehow, we've over come my insecurities, your bullish self-confidence and managed to be the most happy couple we've ever known. Rich & Leslie would be proud of us. Have you ever considered writing our own book, wook? I love you, and together we will go on as notnAP and The Half-naked Woman, Wookums and Little Wook for a long, long time....notnAP Your wittle Wookums

Shark: If half the people reading this page knew who you really are (as those of us who do will attest) they would know what I mean when I say that Saturday Night to you promises nothing more than self satisfaction. notnAP

Dan: What do you meant that was your first personal in four years?!! I sent you one just a couple of weeks ago. And you didn't even see it. Well, here's another one (You have a lot of lost time to make up for.) Get used to it. As long as you're still here to pick on, I'll still pick on you. Go To Class!!!

Gina— Even though it was black bikini bottoms instead of blue silk negligee, I still feel bad about making you yell but I'm glad I made you scream. D

Dear Smith Hall Dogs: Spider with mohawk being held for ransom; will be returned (as is) if we get the carrot slippers and dog, else he'll get a flat top Friday night at midnight

Sue Quinn— Happy B-Day, kiddo, 11-4. Surprised??...no...I didn't think so! (chuckle, chuckle) --Li. Oh, and Sue...have a nice day!

Meg, Thanks for all the shoulder massages, you really know your stuff. I'll see ya in the training room. Spanky P.S. And if you're not too busy....

Meg, Don't let the football players monopolize you, how about giving me a massage? The Typesetter

Jules, I really loved those purple sweats you had on Monday. Do think you could let me borrow them if you are finished cleaning the whirlpools? Spanky

Brenda in 1522: Here's to getting all that crap out of our lives!!! Love, Janine

Typesetter: It wasn't necessarily by choice that I came to this illustrious institution. Had I enough money to finance an education at Stanford or Pepperdine, I definitely would not be a ULowellly right now!!! But as long as I am here, I figure I ought to make the best of it. Keep up the (good???) work. -A 15th floor Junior 15th Floor Junior: And every time a 250 lb football player walked down the hall, you would dive for the desk!! And I agree, make the best of what you have. The Typesetter P.S. And by the way, thanks!!

To Kathy Really Professor, I didn't know we had class on Friday too!

What a cheap date!! Saved you a fortune by finding that price sticker in the Mount St. Nachos, hmmm?? Where to next? It's my turn to treat... Mickey D's sound good?

To Eric H. on 16: Sorry to say that I'm not your admirer this semester. I wish you the best of luck finding her. See Ya Around, A friend on 15

Eva—What do you mean no dinner?! Not very nice. For a friend, you say? Is he cute? Just kidding! WELL, you're forgiven this time, but don't let it happen again!! See ya, Karen

Honey, Thanks for making me so happy. I know now that things are going to work for us. I'll always be here for you. Forever, Brenda

To Steve in 324 Smith, Thanx for all the rides to school. Maybe in December I can take you out for a couple of cold ones. A Friend in Fox

Hi! It's me again, the Punster. Do you know what I read in the paper the other day?? Some Cargo ship was sailing for Taiwan, carrying a shipment of yo-yo's. Well, it put the Titanic to shame. It sank 184 times!!!

Do you think it's easy? Jerry

Hi Chris P.: I hope when you read this you'll know how I feel, I love you so much. How can this be real?? Since I first met you, My life ain't been the same. Do you know who I am? Can you figure my name?

To Ed West: I had an awesome weekend. Who ever said work was no fun? I can't wait 'til Saturday. Love, "Just a number"

Hi Folks! This is the Punster. You can trust me when I say that I tried Yaz's joke line, and I got the greatest laughs!! It was by far the best Polish joke ever!! And who knows more about laughs than me?? Try it, you'll be glad you did. I was.

Punster: You sound like an ad for a motor oil

Julie: One beer on Monday nights and everybody thinks you're an alcoholic and Ray and I are corrupting influences. What'st he problem with people???? Smitty

Two Quotes of the Week: (pre 2 am). (1) "When she comes in the first thing she'll say is 'God! I'm starving!'" -R.W. (2) "God! I'm starving!" -P.M. -Smitty

To the Connector Staff Dweeb(s) with a key fetish: Watch out, paybacks a bitch--Not who you think

To a concerned student in Smith: D.C. was just wondering why the hell you didn't just come upstairs and talk to me if you have a problem. If you don't want to discuss it with me, then shut the "Y-I up!

To Kevin EE from Dracut: Did you have a nice birthday party at Rosie O'Grady's? My mother did. The Daughter that goes to Lowell

To Finbar Sheehan: When are we going to the Mid-Night Court?!! One who misses you. P.S. Hi, Harry!

Dr. Von Doomed: If you wish to have a verbal repartee with me, I would suggest that you prepare yourself for utter humiliation, for I shall (yep verily, even unto the last shred) annihilate you over-inflated, pompous ego. Beware! The Beast

The Beast: "Over-inflated, pompous ego?" Indeed your manner of speech as surely improved since last we confronted, but yet I detect that you language is usually closer to Crustacean levels than actual human utterances. Victor Von Doom.

Thing-fish: At least I know who my parents are... The Beast

The Beast: "Who" or "What"? The Typesetter

Secret Lover: How long can we keep this secret love affair going on? Is that what it really is a "secret" love affair or what? What is really going on between us? Come up and talk. The girl upstairs

Typesetter: Thick though my head may be, it has, at least kept my brain in its rightful place. The Beast

Beast: Of course you realize, that the smaller the brain, the thicker head needed to keep it in place... The Typesetter

To my Pookie Bear: I love you!!! "Thank you". Yours always, Carolyn

Dork and Mandy: Mandy, shut up! No sex in my back seat guys! Your nose tastes good. Stallone in stereo. Keep making those looks. Balman

Typesetter, O.K., now you want to talk about my car? Let's talk about a certain blue truck I know of. The one with the completely loose right quarter panel and a huge dent in the front left quarter panel. The same truck with the rotted out hood and drivers door. Also let us not forget the transmission - if you want to call it a transmission, and those gay little amber lights on top. Let's not leave out the big white letters that say Chevrolet on the tailgate. Made in America - Big Deal! So next time you want to talk about my foreign tin can - Think Twice. Spanky

Spanky: Please note: Loose quarter panel was on the previous truck, both front quarters, hood and door will be replaced before December along with the transmission. And if those amber lights are gay, that is there business as long as they don't try and proposition me. Those big letters show pride in American products - much better than a little piece of chromed (?) plastic that says Datsun. And who is speaking of rotting quarters and doors? The Typesetter

First Lady: You look nice! Thanks fro the best month of my life. I promise you that the best is yet to come. If things keep on going the way they are, you may have yourself a black BMW. Love Always, Balman

Riddle me this: What kind of twisted weirdo devotes his evenings to spying on girls who live in green houses? Marie's Boyfriend

Cash Prizes!! $25, $15, $10 to top 3 men and women finishers in today's 2.4 mile Halloween Road Race. Today 9 4 P.M. $1.00 entry fee. Sponsored by RHA

John in 1016: how's everything been lately. Since I probably won't have the opportunity to see you in person today, I'm taking this chance to say "Have a happy Birthday!" Karen S.

To J&R: We are people too!!!

Nermal—So when are you going to explain blueballs to us? Skip

Eva—Sorry about your key. Shawn

notnAP: You and all your "allies" put together couldn't even scratch a dragon. And, as for your out of tune twangs on your gitar, you need about a thousand years of practice before I would want to hear you play it again. Chimaera

To the Guys in 1209: WE apologize for false accusations. Let's be friends. With love, 1109

To Drew in 812: Thanks for being the only moron stupid enough to come and visit the lonely girls on eleven. We love you! From your study buddies

To bobby in 1009: You're the only one on ten that we'll come down to see! You should be flattered! Signed: The Study Buddies from 11.

Study Buddies from 11: We have a rather high opinion of ourselves, don't we? The Typesetter

To John in 1602: Where have you been? Have you fallen off the face of the earth? Don't party too much; you may end up with a permanent hangover. From Lori in 1102

Melinda, What the hell is a "Phoooph"? R.L.

To The Typesetter: Dorothy may have killed the wicked witch of the West, but it has nothing to do with me!! I am a very caring individual who is always watching out for my girls. So there!! From, MOM!

MOM: It is one thing to care for your girls, it is quite another not to let them fly when they have their wings! The Typesetter

To anyone who knows or cares: What floor in Fox has an R.A. by the name of "Tom"? Needs to know

Needs to know: There are two. Which "Tom"? The Typesetter

Becky, Hope you didn't hurt yourself too bad on that Pinto Thursday night. No you are not a stunt woman. Sorry about "falling asleep" Friday nite, but you found someplace "comfortable" to sleep, didn't you? -Your partner in crime, Colleen

Britt—Have you gotten hit by any flying Hockey sticks lately? I wouldn't go in Maury's room on those "certain days" if I were you. You many do something you'll regret later. Love, Colleen Typesetter—My right leg is Christmas and my left leg is New Years, come up and see me between the holidays - 5 of the original ten on one. P.S. Same goes for me - 6 of the original 10 on one.

-5 and -6: I got confused with all of the twisted bodies who had what number!! See you between the Holidays. The Typesetter

Yo, Pam: What's up? Gotta love them crew parties! Just thought I'd tell ya you're one in a million! By the way, you look nice!!! R.L.

T.R. and M.D., I think that it's about time that we make use of our omnipotent powers and blind the watcher of the green house (we can take over the universe next week). Let's hear it!! Booga Booga, Haw Haw Haw!!! The one and only

Typesetter: Does the Dept. of Defense Collegiate undercover team still exist? The Tailgunner

Tailgunner: Some where, maybe. But I think that it went the way of high GPA's. The Typesetter

Brendan Salter: You snob. Just because you're an overclassmen now doesn't make you a better stud! Signed Ex-snuggles

Spanky—Did I mention that we made a copy of that tape? It's going to cost you big to get it. NoMuTT

K.C. - Give him a chance, will you? Even Mom's on his side. NoMuTT

Nikki - Thanks for letting me go through your drawers that night. How come there were so many clothes in there? NoMuTT

To Scott from Billerica, (who's also on the soccer team), I met you outside of a busted up party a couple of weekends ago.(Remember the fir born eight days after you, who also went to the Talbot?), and I just thought I'd let you know that you're on my personal top ten list.

To those that try to disrespect our music, don't deny it 'cause it has just begun "Feel the Rapattack" skeezers!!! 1219!!!!!!

To Someone Special: I don't know what to do. Sorry...TU SAIS QUI...."Sp....."S".....

Dear Maria T. So sorry buy Sonya needs my help more than you do this year. my sincere apology. Helpful

To Diana and Beth: Don't take the music personal, but there are those who must be taught respect. David

Dear Roselyn W.: Glad to see you finally sat down in the movie. david

Dear P.J.: I think you left your sense of humor in Canada. Signed haha

Melinda, I don't care what you say about me, I still think you are an extremely nice person (with or without your foot). Mike D.

Melinda, What is a foof? The Typesetter

Running to stay in shape? Come and hoin the fun of the Halloween Road Race (5km). Sign up at 3pm today in the Leitch lobby. $1.00 entry fee. Sponsored by RHA

The National Inquirer would like to know the answer to the million dollar question

Inquiring minds would like to know: Did Bunny get laid last week?

To the gorgeous blond on 2nd Leitch: C.D. Your body is so.... Your personality is so..... Well, how can we put it...? simply Nauseating

Even more inquiring minds would like to know: Just how many times Bunny got it?

SAFE SEX IS FUN SEX

To my Big Brother: Take it easy on you new little. He has only one ass you know. Love, Your little sister

MB and Pleasure Principal: Thanks for the ride in the "Orgasmatron", we should do it again. Hey, next time we have a racial conversation we should stay in our own neighborhood

Did your schedule get screwed up by the registrar too???? And just who is he anyway

Above: It wasn't him, it is the new computer that doesn't have all of it's bugs worked out yet. If you have a problem, make an appointment to speak with him - He is very willing to help us students out. The Typesetter

Tric - How hard is it to cross the street? Come by and say high. Kris. P.S. I have your shades

Colleen: Next time you pass out, give me my room keys. We better stay away from the Corner Boys if we know what's good for us, but since we don't why bother!!! Oh yeah,
